Bodies of Those Killed in Recent Warsaw Riots Taken from Homes to Police Station.

"HOOLIGANS" CAUSING TROUBLE.

Plundered Many Residences of Workmen During Trouble Sunday and Monday—Strikers' Weak Summary Vengeance When Caught—Newspapers Resume Publication.

Warsaw, Feb. 3.—The morning passed quietly. The factory districts are strongly guarded by troops. Warsaw continues in a state of siege.

All the bodies of those killed in the riots have been removed from their homes to police stations. The relatives are not permitted to bury them. From the police station in the Novi Svat district alone the corpses of 50 men and two women were taken Monday night in four hospital vans to the Jewish, Lutheran and Catholic cemeteries and remained there for identification until Tuesday, when they were buried. Twenty-one bodies are still unidentified.

During the riots of Sunday and Monday the workmen's residence district was unprotected by police and the Hooligans seized the opportunity to plunder many dwellings. A large body of workmen yesterday went to a suburb, where criminals abound and instituted a rigorous search of their houses. Wherever they were able to identify stolen property the workmen promptly killed the persons who had it in their possession. About a hundred other criminals were injured in fighting with the workmen. The latter were not only actuated by revenge for their losses, but were enraged because the Hooligan element brought discredit upon the strike movement.

The local newspapers have resumed publication. The editors met and unanimously agreed that as the censor would not permit them to tell the truth regarding the disturbances they would absolutely refrain from mentioning the subject except in the official reports which they are compelled to publish.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 3.—Maxim Gorky, the author who was arrested shortly after the disturbances at St. Petersburg January 22, has been released from custody.

THE EASTERN WAR.

Russian Correspondent Reports Repulse of Japanese—U.S.'s Recent Losses Amount to 13,000.

Mukden, Feb. 3.—After the Russian bombardment of Sandiapu Tuesday the Japanese tried to drive them off but failed. The indications are that the Japanese will abandon Sandiapu. The usual artillery duel is proceeding at the center. Ten Japanese battalions which attacked the Russian left were repulsed with heavy loss. The latest returns of the Russian losses during the recent fighting show that 13,000 men were killed or wounded, Gen. Kondratyev being among the latter.

Entire West Shivering.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 3.—The entire west experienced the coldest weather of the winter Thursday morning. In Iowa and Nebraska the thermometers registered as low as 35 degrees below zero, while in Kansas and Missouri 14 below was reached. At Havre, Mont., 46 below was reported.

Cross Examination of Russian Officers at Paris Developed Considerable Feeling.

SEVERELY CRITICISED BRITISH PRESS.

Capt. Clado Refused to Repeat a Phrase Used by Admiral Rojestvensky in a Private Letter—English Attorney Asked the Captain a Delicate Question—Lieut. Ellis Also Examined.

Paris, Feb. 3.—A continuance of the cross-examination of the Russian officers at Thursday's session of the international commission developed considerable feeling and several sharp exchanges of remarks. Capt. Clado particularly criticised the hostile attitude of the British press. He said Vice Admiral Rojestvensky had written a private letter severely condemning the British press, using one phrase which Capt. Clado said he considered necessary to withhold. Baron Taube, the Russian judicial adviser, remarked that it was doubtless some strong, searing expression. Capt. Clado replied: "I will not say the phrase was strong but it was bitter."

Capt. Clado referred to an alleged misstatement that Russian torpedo boats remained upon the scene without rendering aid to the trawlers. He declared that no such torpedo boats remained.

Hugh O'Brien, first secretary of the British embassy in Paris and agent of Great Britain, said he had heretofore refrained from asking a delicate question, namely, why none of the Russian ships remained to give assistance after knowing that peaceful fishing boats had been struck.

Capt. Clado answered that Admiral Rojestvensky had fully explained that he did not consider the injuries to the fishing boats were serious, whereas the squadron having just escaped from an attack by torpedo boats, it was desirable to withdraw the squadron as soon as possible from the vicinity of such attacks.

Admiral Beaumont (Great Britain) closely questioned the witness on who gave the order to fire. Capt. Clado saying it was Admiral Rojestvensky.

Lieut. Ellis, of the Russian battleship Alexander III, also maintained his testimony on cross-examination.

WILL BE HELD FOR MURDER.

Chicago Coroner Is Positive Now That Johann Hoch Murdered Mrs. Marie Welker-Hoch.

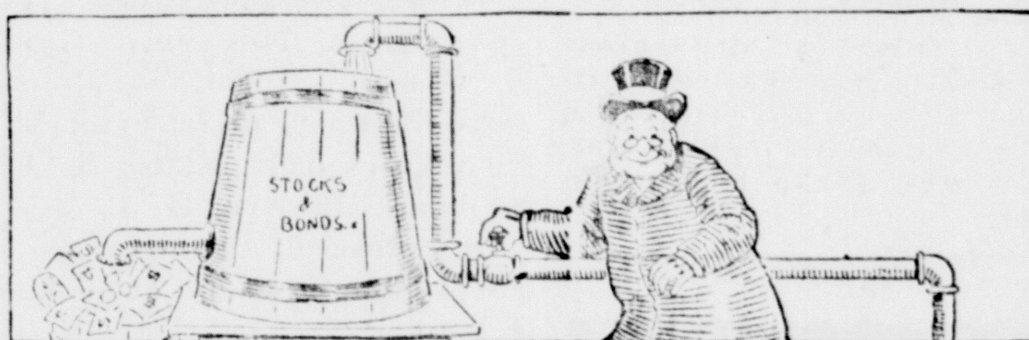

Chicago, Feb. 3.—Indictment for murder will be asked by Coroner Hoffman against Johann Hoch, the alleged poisoner of many wives. "I am now in position to say positively the embalming fluid injected into the body of Mrs. Marie Welker-Hoch did not contain arsenic," said the coroner Thursday. "Arsenic was not a constituent of any of the drugs administered by the physician who attended the woman before her death. The fact that more than two and a half ounces of poison were found in the organs means that Hoch murdered his wife. The coroner's jury will doubtless hold Hoch to the grand jury, but if it fails to do so, I will myself hold him under my official prerogative."

Mrs. Rogers Reprieved.

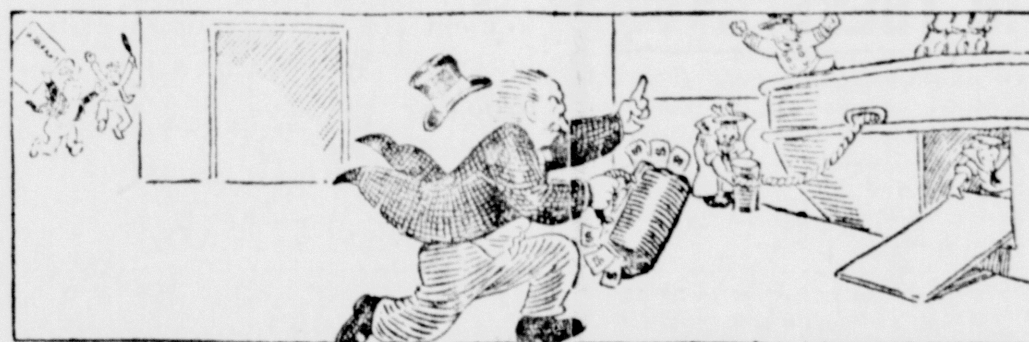

Waterbury, Vt., Feb. 3.—Mrs. Mary Rogers, who was to have been hanged Friday for the murder of her husband, has been reprieved until June.

Mr. Beauchamp has only been four years under bureau management, yet in that time he has filled 957 dates in lectures and Chautauquas, a record we believe has never been equalled in the history of the lyceum. One reason for this large number of engagements is due to the fact that while new places are constantly seeking his services, having heard of his success in neighboring courses, the old places demand him as well, and he has gone back year after year to the same courses. No man or company has ever had a larger percentage of return dates than Mr. Beauchamp and "better than ever," is the report that after the third consecutive appearance, "we shall want him again."

WATER PIPES BURSTED.

The Continued Cold Works Havoc With the System.

With a report like a shotgun two joints at the top of the water tower burst Friday morning while a gang of workmen under Supt. Markham were doing their level best to thaw out the frozen pipes below.

The continued cold has been severe on the system, notwithstanding the fact that water has been kept flowing through the mains all the time. Supt. Markham states that the water will be drained from the tower and he thinks the damage can be repaired by Saturday noon.

Under the conditions all parties should be exceedingly cautious about fire and make doubly sure as to the safety of the chimneys and the like.

HOBOS NUMEROUS.

Give Them a Chance at the Rock Pile.

During the past week the good housewives of Ada have been pestered by a class of bums and hobos that would do credit to a denizen of the Bowery.

They have the gall to knock at the back door and almost demand they be given a square meal. In one instance a big 250 pounder asked for something to eat and when told that he would be given a warm meal if he would cut a few armfuls of wood, replied that it was "agin" his principles to work.

Still another when promised a hot meal with biscuits and coffee if he would carry in some wood, replied that he was too tired, as he had walked the streets all the night previous in order to keep warm.

Now what do you think of that? It would be a good idea for the city to have a few loads of rock hauled in and put these gentry to pounding them. The rock could be used in a number of places to good advantage for street crossings and the residence section relieved of these pinhandlers and wives and mothers saved from the insults of this homogenous class.

COMMITTEE REPORTED

Going After Division Point in Earnest

The citizens of Ada through their commercial club have made earnest solicitation of the proper officers of the Frisco system to establish in Ada the shops of the Red River freight division.

The commercial club, which represents the solid business interests of the town did not determine on the action which it represented in the request to the railroad, until its conservative committee of business men had informed the club that after careful examination they had assured knowledge that the city was amply able in point of water and grounds to satisfy the needs of the division and that it was their best opinion that the removal of the division from Francis to Ada would be profitable to the railroad and subservient to its best interests.

The commercial club committees are acting positively and determinedly, and every citizen of Ada is with almost intense interest, viewing the final of the undertaking.

It may be viewed by others than citizens of Ada as being peculiar that such agitation should exist in the matter of the removal of the round house when it is considered that Ada has within four years secured a population of forty five hundred people and that all lines of business are profitable and many enterprises have voluntarily come to the town, notwithstanding the referred to division was situated in a competitive town only nine miles distant, and considering too, that through the efforts of the commercial club many benefits have been secured to Ada, any of which, has caused more rapid advancement of the town than could possibly result from the securing the round house, it may not ever be understood by the Frisco just why the people are so terribly in earnest in their request that the officials carefully consider the feasibility of the removal of the division.

It has been suspected by the business interests of Ada, whether justly, is a question, that the Frisco had discriminated against this town in favor of others, and this suspicion, which has been real, has been encouraged by the open avowal of some that near by towns on the line had better freight rates than Ada, and it has been the general knowledge by, likely every man, woman and many of the children in this town that the officials had failed to even place the name of Ada on their railroad maps. Of course this little matter was in all probability an oversight, however, it was not remedied when the attention of the road authorities was called to it, and it has been embarrassing, if not humiliating for our people to receive letters from our friends who were interested in the country we lived, and perhaps were contemplating visiting the town, requesting more implicit advice as to the particular distance we were located from some known town appearing on the maps of the Frisco.

It is said by the Frisco employees who know, that the Frisco did a two hundred and fifty thousand dollar business with the year 1904, and that being true it is safe to estimate the total business of Ada with the Frisco during the past four years is more than one million dollars. The cost of moving the shops would not likely be more than the Frisco would be profited the first twelve months by reason of the action, which would be convincing proof that the Frisco appreciated the business of the largest town on its Red River division.

MAYOR STABBED IN BACK.

Morton Rutherford, of Muskogee, Stabbed While Ejecting Visitor.

The Muskogee Democrat says: Mayor Rutherford and C. K. Mark clashed at the meeting of the city council Wednesday night and serious consequences were only averted by the intercession of the crowd.

The mayor attempted to silence Mr. Marks and then to eject him from the council chamber and Marks stabbed his Honor in the neck, but not seriously.

Wildest confusion re-ensued.

The mayor had called upon citizens to say what they thought of the sewer work and Mr. Marks took advantage of the occasion to go after Constructing Engineer McDonald rough shod.

This the mayor objected to and attempted to stop Marks and prevent the use of personalities and in the absence of a policeman, he sought to enforce his order personally.

The mayor started for Marks with a poker. Marks drew a knife, but this did not deter his honor and a vicious slash from Marks caught the mayor on the neck.

PECK'S BAD BOY

The Bad Boy Writes the Old Groceryman About George Washington and Mount Vernon.

BY HON. GEORGE W. PECK.
(Ex-Governor of Wisconsin, formerly publisher of "Peck's Sun," author of "Peck's Bad Boy," etc.)
(Copyright, 1904, by Joseph B. Bowles. Copyright in Great Britain.)

WASHINGTON, D. C. My Dear Uncle Ezra: I got a letter from you this morning, and he says he was in the grocery the day he wrote, and you were a s-gat. He says that if I am going to be away several months you will never change your shirt till I get back, or nobody around the grocery seems to have any influence over you. I meant to have put you under bonds before I left, to change your shirt at least quarterly, but you ought to change it by rights every month. The way to do it is get an almanac and make a mark on the figures at the first of the month, and when you are studying the almanac it will remind you of your duty to society.

STANDING WITHIN EIGHT FEET OF THE REMAINS OF GEORGE WASHINGTON, HE JUST LOST HIS NERVE AND BELLETERED.

Dad and I have been down to Mount Vernon, and had a mighty solemn time.

At Mount Vernon we found the old house where George lived and died, where Martha told him to wipe his feet before he came in the house, and saw that things were cooked properly. We saw picture of revolutionary scenes and men of that period, relics of the days when George was the whole thing around there. We saw the bed on which George died, and then we went down to the ice-house and looked through the fence and saw the marble coffins in which George and Martha were sealed up.

I was surprised at dad; he cried, though he never met George Washington in all his life. I have seen dad at funerals at home when he was a bearer, or a mourner, and he never acted as though it affected him much, but there at Mount Vernon, standing within eight feet of the remains of George Washington, he just lost his nerve, and belleted, and I felt solemn myself, like I had been kept in after school when all the boys were going in swimming. If a negro had not asked dad for a quarter I know dad would have got down on his knees and been pious, but when he saw that negro a swift kick for butting in with a commercial proposition in a sacred moment, dad came to, and we went up to the house again.

Dad said what he wanted was to think of George Washington just as a country farmer. Instead of a general and a president. He said we got nearer to George, if we thought of him setting up in the morning, putting on his old farmer pants and shirt, and going downstairs in his stocking feet, and going out to the kitchen by the wooden bench, dipping a gourd full of rain water out of a barrel into an earthen wash basin, and taking some soft soap out of a dish and washing himself, his shirt open so his great hairy breast would catch the breeze, his an-penders, made of striped bed ticking, hanging down, his hair tousled up until he had taken out a yellow pocket comb and combed it, and then yelling to Martha to know about how long a working-man would have to wait for breakfast.

By ginger, dad inspired me with new thoughts about the father of his country. I had always thought of Washington as though he was constantly crossing the Delaware in a s-l-i-d through floeking ice, with a cocked hat on and his coat flaps trimmed with ermine, and stuff a sort of a male King of the Cabin," getting away from the hounds that were chasing her to chew her pants. I was always thinking of George either chopping cherry trees, or standing on a pedestal to have his picture taken, but here at the old farm, with dad to inspire me, I was just mingling with Washington, the planter, the neighbor, telling the negroes where they would get off at if they didn't pick cotton fast enough, or breaking colts, or going to the churn and drinking a quart of buttermilk, and getting the stomach ache, and calling upstairs to Martha, who was at the spinning wheel, or knitting woolen socks, and asking her to fix up a brandy smash to cure his griping pains.

Then, when I looked at a duck blind out in the Potomac, near the shore, I thought how George used to put on an old coat and slouch hat and take his gun and go out in the blind, and shoot canvas-back ducks for dinner, and paddle his boat out after the dead birds, the way Grover Cleveland did a century later. I tell you, old man, the way to appreciate our great statesmen, soldiers and scholars is to think of them just as plain, ordinary citizens, doing the things men do nowadays. It does dad and I more good to think of Washington and his friends camping out down the Potomac, on a fishing trip, sleeping on a bed of pine boughs, and cooking their own pork, and roasting sweet potatoes in the ashes, eating with appetites like slaves, than to think of him at a state dinner in the white house, with a French cook disguising the food so they could not tell what it was.

O I had rather have a picture of George Washington and Lafayette coming up the bank of the Potomac toward the house, loaded down with ducks, and Martha standing on the porch of Mount Vernon asking them who they bought the ducks of and how much they cost, than to have one of those big paintings in the white house showing George and Lafayette looking as though they had conquered the world. If the phonograph had been invented then, and we could listen to the conversation of those men, just as they said things, it would be great. Imagine George saying to Lafayette, so you could hear it now: "Laf, that last shot at that canvas back you made was the longest shot ever made on the Potomac. It was a Jim dandy, you old frog eater." And imagine Lafayette replying: "You bet your life, George. I nailed that buck canvasback with a charge of number six shot, and he never knew what struck him." But they didn't have any photokkraphs in those days and so you have got to imagine things.

All the time at Mount Vernon I couldn't get up meanness enough to play any trick on dad, but I picked up a sort of a horse chestnut or something, with prickles on it as sharp as needles, and as we were getting on the trolley I slipped it down the back of dad's pants, near where his suspenders button on, and by the time we sat down in the car the horse chestnut had worked down where dad is the largest, and when he leaned back against the seat he turned pale and wiggled around and asked me if he looked bad. I told him he looked like a corpse, which encouraged him so he almost fainted. He asked me if I had heard of any contagious diseases that were prevalent in Virginia, 'cause he felt as though he had caught something. I told him I would ask the conductor, so I went and asked the conductor what time we got to Washington, and then I went back to dad and told him the conductor said there was no diseases of any particular account, except smallpox and yellow fever, and that the first symptom of smallpox was a prickling sensation in the small of the back.

Dad turned green and said he had got it all right, and I had the darndest time getting him back to the hotel at Washington. Say, I had to help him undress, and I took the horse chestnut and put it in the foot of the bed, and got dad in, and I went downstairs to see a doctor, and then I came back and told him the doctor said if the prickly sensation went to his feet he was in no danger from smallpox, as it was an evidence that an old vaccination of years ago had got in its work and knocked the disease out of his system lengthwise, and when I told dad that he raised up in bed and said he was saved, for ever since I went out of the room he had felt that same dreaded prickling at work on his feet, and he was all right.

I told dad it was a narrow escape, and that it ought to be a warning to him. Dad has to wear a dress suit to dinner here and cough up money every time he turns around, 'cause I have told the bell boys dad is a bonanza copper kid, and they are not doing a thing to dad.

O, I guess I am doing just as the doctors at home ordered, in keeping dad's mind occupied.

Well, so long, old man. I have got to go to dinner with dad, and I am going to order the dinner myself, dad said I could, and if I don't put him into bankruptcy, you don't know your little

HAS THE LAW BEEN EVADED?

Episcopal Missionary Bishop of South Dakota Declares Money Was Paid to Catholic Schools.

COULD GET NO OFFICIAL CONCESSIONS

The Bishop Describes His Efforts to Secure Some Relief from the Rigid Application of the Law Prohibiting Government Aid to Sectarian Indian Schools—Took the Matter Up to the President.

New York, Feb. 3.—The Evening Post prints a statement from the Right Rev. William H. Hare, Protestant Episcopal missionary bishop of South Dakota, in which he charges that the law prohibiting government aid to sectarian Indian schools has been evaded and that money has been paid out to the Catholic mission schools. Bishop Hare's statement is dated Sioux Falls, S. D., January 5. He describes the pecuniary embarrassment and anxiety on the part of the schools following the abolishment of the contract system of government aid and recites his efforts to secure some measure of relief from its rigid application.

"It was tried," said Bishop Hare, "that when rations and annuities had reached the Indian country, and a parent who had a child in a mission boarding school consented that that child's fair share of the rations for his family should be turned over to the mission school, compliance with his wish could not fairly be held to be an appropriation to a sectarian school. I ventured to present this view of the case to the commissioner of Indian affairs. He rejected it. I then carried the case to the secretary of the interior. He upheld the decision of the commissioner. I then took the matter up to the president, who referred the matter to the attorney general, Mr. Knox."

The statement then quotes Attorney General Knox's reply, upholding the position of the Indian commissioner and declaring that official "has no authority to grant Bishop Hare's application."

PRINCE MIRSKY'S RETIREMENT

Russian News-pers Semantics with the Former Minister of the Interior—Boulean to Succeed Him.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 3.—In discussing the retirement of Interior Minister Prince Sviatopolk-Mirsky, the Novoe Vremya says: "The circumstances of Sviatopolk-Mirsky leaving the ministry of the interior calls forth sympathy towards this sincere, good man and his unrealized hopes." Continuing, the Novoe Vremya remarks that Sviatopolk-Mirsky did not possess the self-confidence necessary to insist upon the program which had the sympathy of the Russian people.

The Russ refers to the administration of Sviatopolk-Mirsky as a "ministry of good intention" and adds that "in view of its short duration it would be unjust to demand any results."

M. Boulean's appointment as minister of the interior was signed Wednesday although it has not yet been promulgated. It is believed his appointment will be only temporary.

The friends of Prince Sviatopolk-Mirsky express regret for the sale of his future fame that he did not resign the moment it became apparent that the policy on which he assumed office was not attainable.

Darling, assistant secretary of the navy, has tendered his resignation to the president, asking that it take effect near the expiration of his four years' term of service, which expires December, 1905. The Standard oil's pumping plant at Paola, Kan., is completed and the company can handle 100 barrels an hour there.

KANSAS LAWMAKERS.

Bill Recommended in Both Houses for the Building of a New Penitentiary at Peru.

Topeka, Kan., Feb. 3.—The railroad bill prepared by the Kansas Federation of Commercial Interests is not satisfactory to the leaders in the legislature and a new measure has been written to take its place. The federation bill came from Texas and it had the endorsement of David M. Dale, the democratic candidate for governor. The new bill was prepared by T. E. Garver, of Topeka, by the direction of a large number of shippers. Representative Brandon has been asked to introduce it. The new bill amends the present law by giving the railroad board authority to establish rates and classifications and it contains a section requiring railroads to pay a sum of money for failure to deliver cars on time, to offset the demurrage charges their patrons must pay. The bill prohibits the railroad commissioners from using passes.

A bill was recommended for passage in both houses providing for an appropriation of $100,000 to build a new penitentiary at Peru. This is to provide men to work the state oil refinery, which will be established there under provision of the bill. According to the Kansas constitution the state cannot use free labor in the state refinery, and as the present penitentiary is so far from the oil fields, it is necessary that another be established. The bill is the outcome of the fight being waged against the Standard Oil company by the Kansas oil interests. In addition to a state refinery it provides that pipe lines shall be common carriers and fixes a maximum freight rate to be charged for transporting oil.

Cyrus Leland, representative from Doniphan county, in the house introduced a bill to strengthen the prohibitory law. It has been the practice of wholesale liquor houses in Kansas City, St. Joseph and other "foreign" cities to ship liquor into Kansas in C. O. D. packages. They would consign them to John Doe or Richard Roe, and if anybody with a thirst would go to the express office, sign up and pay the cash he could get the liquor. Leland's bill prohibits this practice.

Jesse Gardner, a student of the agricultural college from Cloud county, was accidentally killed one year ago by a fall while attending to his duties at school. Senator Peck and Representative Brierly introduced a bill in both houses to appropriate $2,000 to Gardner's parents. The boy was the mainstay of the family.

The house ways and means committee has reported a bill appropriating $10,945 to reimburse counties for keeping pauper insane while the state asylums were overcrowded. This item used to aggregate from $100,000 to $200,000 each biennial period. The small amount this time is due to the fact that the state is taking care of most of the insane since the completion of the Parsons asylum. Formerly every county would have claims.

Senator Fulton's bill make road overseers appointive by the township trustee instead of elective by the people and has been reported for passage.

Senator Connor introduced a bill requiring teachers to be in good health. It provides that they shall undergo a physical examination before being granted certificates to teach.

The senate was busy Thursday. The Barber bill was repealed; the Price raid claims resolutions recalled from the house, which probably means defeat. The state militia law was passed as was the compulsory vaccination law.

The ways and means committee in the house introduced the executive and judicial appropriation bills. They were read a second time and referred to the committee of the whole.

The appropriation of $61,000 for a state printing plant was introduced in the house bearing the stamp of the administration's approval.

Jefferson City, Mo., Feb. 3.—The supreme court, en banc, has affirmed the judgment of the lower court which convicted William Rudolph of the murder of Detective Schumacher, and sentenced him to be hanged March 17 next. Detective Schumacher was killed while attempting to arrest Rudolph and Collins for the robbery of the Union (Mo.) bank. Collins was hanged some time ago. Rudolph escaped from the St. Louis jail and was found in the Kansas state penitentiary, from which he was brought back here.

It is charged that the men sold mining stock while on duty as carriers, as well as when off duty and frequently while in uniform. "To the scandal of the public service." It is also alleged that in some of the cases the men made false statements under oath in denying the charges.
